Finding a pastor

Because I believe in what it stands for

Inclusiveness for all people.

I love the people here

Inclusiveness, finding a pastor

It is the right thing to do - bottom line is that Jesus never said anything about gays

The discipline is in error of the Bible.

Accept others in love

The security of knowing we will have a pastor and a governing body

Our church has always been welcoming to all

God loves everyone not just the people who believe everything you do.

I believe in our creeds and affirmations of faith.

Unsure of what will happen if we leave. Don't like change. As long as we have a good preacher Times are changing and we as a church need to change

Acceptance of all individuals

God said love all. Do not judge others, Jesus said

I am being transformed by Jesus' example for His people. The UMC has an open door and my heart is open -when I'm not struggling with fellow Christian's' views or actions.

God loves all. Jesus said do not judge

To stand as a Community of like minded followers of

To stand as a Community of like minded followers of Jesus Christ our Savior

Have all the estimates/valuations come in to see how much the buy out would be?

Had been my church for over 50 y

If we stay with the UMC and a gay couple wants to get married here but the church decides that this church won't do that what would you tell them?

What questions do you have? (questions that were asked)

1. If decision made to stay , and the conference continued to present other areas that might not be acceptable - is this the final opportunity to leave the conference?
2. What happened to the proposal that was to be voted on in 2020 about we would be an umbrella Methodist organization under which all the churches would remain umc regardless of their stance on this?
3. How can we convince and entice people of different views regardless of our decision?
4. “Will we have to get rid of everything that has the flame and cross symbol?”
5. How much is the buy out?
6. What year did we join the conference and what were the reasons for joining?
